

Welcome to reports. So in this module, we're going to empower you to be able to review your reports and use them to make informed financial decisions about your business. This is a really fun point in the bookkeeping process and the learning journey for you to put everything all together. Now you can see there's a trend and a pattern that keeps happening. Everything I'm teaching you, you're adding to, and you're adding on top of, in the very next module. This is where you're going to put all of your knowledge together. And you're going to start learning how to review the actual reports that tell you how much you're making and how much you're spending. So how much money is coming in and how much is going out and what all of that means.

Now, this isn't something you're magically going to get after just reviewing the module and going through the lessons, this is going to be something you're going to learn over time that's going to evolve. And this is part of the membership and the co-working sessions and applying for the hot seats and asking questions in the Q and a. This is where the Number Nerd team is really going to help you dive deep with all of the things you're learning and help you go through the analysis level and reviewing those financial reports and moving into the workshops where we're able to put a budget together, and we're able to put your cashflow projections together. I'll see you guys on the next lesson.
